

THE OTT FAMILY
SCHAFFHAUSEN, SWITZERLAND TO AMERICA

Written by RICHARD OTT (DickOtt@aol.com), APRIL, 1996

Prepared for internet by Jurg Ott (ott@rockefeller.edu). Early individuals of Ott family members going back to the 1300s may be found here, communicated to me by Marcia Ott. See also the OttFamTree file.

Dick's great grandfather, Georg Heinrich Ott (1844-1897, Tables 8 and 10), and Jurg's grandfather, Paul Heinrich Ott (1844-1929, Tables 8 and 11), were brothers. This makes us second cousins once removed. Jurg is in Table 11, Dick's father in Table 10. In the descriptions below, dates are given in the American manner, that is, as month/day/year.

FORWORD

This is the story of a family that is first heard of in the northern part of Switzerland. They were primarily members of the weaver's guild and ran a bleaching factory on the outside of Schaffhausen, a beautiful city on the Rhine near the Rhinefalls. The town is first mentioned in 1045 when it was given the right to mint coins and hold a market by Henry III. Several years later, a monastery (Monastery of All Saints) was founded and the city began to flourish. Schaffhausen joined the Swiss confederation in 1501. Most of the old town still remains and the homes and buildings have been maintained in a beautiful condition. The OTTs were very much a part of the history of this town and obtained positions of importance and respect from guild-masters to clerics to mayor. The earliest member of this family identified was Georg Ott who came from Zurich, some 30 miles south, and became a citizen of Schaffhausen in the 1560's by paying 30 florins to the city council and 20 more to the weaver's guild. He set up a bleaching factory just outside of town. His parentage is not known for certain although he most assuredly descended from Felix Ott (1398-1444), a citizen of Zurich who was beheaded while defending Greifensee in the war between Zurich and the Swiss Confederates. His son was Kilian Ott (1434-1500), who was a dyer and bought a house on the grounds of the Munsterhof or minister court at Zurich. His son Hermann (1470-1521) attained the honor of guild-master and chief magistrate at Dietlikon as well as ambassador at Zug. Hermann's son, Felix (1490-1558), also a dyer, remained in the Catholic church. He traditionally took the altar donated by his family in his house after the reformation. Another son, Hans fell in the battle of Cappel in 1528/29. While Georg is purported to be a descendant of Hans, exactly where Georg fits in with this family is still not known for certain.

This book is written by a descendent of Georg who emigrated to America in the 1860's and fought in America's civil war. Much information was gathered from the archives of Schaffhausen, from the historical works of Franz Meyerhans, and from information obtained by my Swiss cousins Elsbeth Ott, and Wera Schneider.

GEORG OTT (FROM ZURICH)

- Georg Ott is identified in the Schaffhausen, Switzerland archives as being from Zurich. Assuming he was a young man when he arrived, he would have been born around the 1540's and possibly was a grandson of Hans Ott who fell in the battle of Cappel. Sometime in the 1560's, Georg became a citizen of the town, for which privilege, he paid 30 florins to the city council and 20 florins to the Weaver's Guild. He later became a member of the City Council. In 1578, he married Sibilla Hildbrand, daughter of Stephan and Catherina (Wagen) Hildbrand of Schaffhausen on April 10. He had two sons, Franz and Georg and a daughter, Catharina born between 1580 and 1588. He purchased a barn just outside the Engelbrecht Gate near the bleaching ground (Blaiche). This was on the side of town where the train now runs. Parts of the gate was still there early this century. He probably set up his bleaching factory which his descendants ran. The town probably would not allow the factory within the town limits. No death date is noted for Georg, but Sibilla died on Feb. 5, 1611.

I. FRANZ OTT

- Franz was the eldest son of Georg Ott, originally from Zurich and Sybilla Hildbrand and was born in Schaffhausen in 1580. He married Margaretha Forrer of Schaffhausen on Apr. 30, 1601. He was a bleacher and dyer in his parents bleaching factory. He died in 1612 at age 32.

II. CATHARINA OTT

- Catharina was the only daughter of Georg Ott, originally from Zurich and Sybilla Hildbrand and was born in Schaffhausen on Aug. 28, 1581. Nothing further is recorded.

III. GEORG OTT

- Georg was the son of Georg Ott originally from Zurich and Sybilla Hildbrand and was born in Schaffhausen on Sept. 15, 1588. He married Sibilla Hurter (daughter of Hans Jacob and Anna {Vögelin} Hurter, born May 23, 1588 in Schaffhausen) on September 8, 1608. They lived at a property named "At the Sign of the Head", now called "Unity", which he purchased from Josua Veith's heirs. He and Sybilla had nine children between 1609 and 1621. Sibilla may have died at childbirth in July, 1621 at age 33, when twins were born. George married a year later to Elisabetha Oschwald, (daughter of Beat William and Anna {Stabinger} Oschwald, born March, 28, 1596) on July 8, 1622. This marriage produced seven more children from 1623 to 1631. In 1627, Georg became guildmaster (Zunftmeister) at age 39. Two years later, he was named an honorary emissary (Ehrengesandter) to Italy and named Obervogt, a senior administrator, similar to mayor, at Merishausen, a town just north of Schaffhausen. In 1632, he was named rural administrator (Landvogt) at Lugano. In 1635, at 47, he was guildmaster for the second time and also master of the armory (Zeugherr). The armory was located at the top of the hill in the Munot which was the town fortification built in 1564 and located in center of Schaffhausen. In 1636, he was named Obervogt or mayor at Neuhausen, the sister city of Schaffhausen by the Rhine falls. In 1638, he was treasurer (Sekelmeister) and Obervogt at Thaingen, now Thayngen, a town just north-west of Schaffhausen. On July 1, 1639; he married for the third time to Sabina Oschwald (daughter of Hans Georg and Margaretha {Im Thurn} Oschwald, born April 28, 1615 in Schaffhausen). Sabina was a distant cousin of Elizabetha. Whether Elizabetha died or not is not known. Sabina and Georg had one son, Hans Wilhelm. Shortly after his birth, Georg died on Sept. 17, 1641 at age 53. Sabina married twice after Georg's death to Georg Von Waldkirch and Hartman Hofmeister of Zurich.

A. HANS GEORG OTT

- Hans Georg was the oldest child of Georg and Sybilla (Hurter) Ott, born Aug. 7, 1609 in Schaffhausen, Switzerland. He married Margaretha Nieppé (daughter of Hans Nieppé at the Simelring and Elizabeth von Ulm) on Dec. 6, 1630. They had 14 children between 1631 and 1646 and lived in Hans Georg's father's house "At the Sign of the Head". His ran a bleaching factory. In 1632, he became a judge in the lower court (Urteilsprecher). In 1639, he was administrator for the monastery (Klosterpfleger) and leased his bleaching works to Hans Ott, son of Issac Ott (no known relation) for six years. In 1641, he was a city court judge (Vogtrichter) and guildmaster in 1652. He was also selected as senior administrator of Schleitheim in 1654. He, like his father, became honorary emissary to Italy in 1656 and treasurer in 1659. In 1660, he became vice mayor or senior judge (Stadthalter) and Obervogt or mayor of Thayngen.

Sometime after 1646, he married a second time to Anna Merzler, widow of Hans Ulrich Hageloch, guildmaster. They had no known children. Whether Margaretha previously died is not known. Hans Georg died on Aug. 6, 1666 at age 55. He bequeathed, to the city a fourth part of his land in the jurisdiction of Hasslach (probably Haslacherhof, 7 km. northwest of Thayngen) and 50 florins to the almshouse (Seelhaus).

A1. ANNA OTT

- Anna was the eldest child of Hans George Ott and his first wife Margaretha (Nieppé) Ott, born Nov. 27, 1631 in Schaffhausen. Both she and the daughter of Hans Georg's step-sister, born 17 days earlier were named Anna. She married Johann Conrad Schyuleg of Schaffhausen.

A2. HANS GEORG OTT

- Hans Georg (named after his father) was the son of Hans George Ott and his first wife Margaretha (Nieppé) Ott, born Sep. 4, 1632 in Schaffhausen. He married Dorothea Amman (daughter of Hans Heinrich and Irma {Rois} Amman, born May 19, 1633 in Schaffhausen) on Nov. 20, 1654. Hans Georg and Dorothea had 11 children between 1655 and 1671. They were located "on the Bleaching Grounds" which could have been their factory or the name of their domicile. Hans Georg became a judge in the lower court (Urteilsprecher) in 1661 and in 1669, he was a member of the Great Council (des grossen Raths). In 1674, he married a second time to Helena Brunner. No further information is known of this second marriage nor is it known whether Dorothea died prior to the marriage. Hans Georg died on Aug. 7, 1677 at a young age 45.

A2A. HANS GEORG OTT (1)

- Oldest child of Hans Georg and Dorothea (Amman) Ott (named after his father), born Aug. 23, 1655 in Schaffhausen. He died young.

On May 1, 1676, she married Hans Ott (born Sep. 21, 1658), son of Hans and Elizabetha (Bollinger) Ott of Schaffhausen. Hans appears to be from an unrelated Ott family which predated the Georg Ott from Zurich branch in Schaffhausen although it is possible that they were earlier related. Hans held a number of positions including Overseer of Thayngen. Anna probably died between 1685 and 1691 as Hans married again on Nov. 5, 1691 to Catherina Keck. He married a third time to Barbara Stierlin on July 5, 1716. He died on Mar. 9, 1728 at age 70. Hans and Anna had 6 children:

- Hermann was the youngest son of Johann Melchior and Francisca (Seiler) Ott, born Sept. 18, 1812 in Schaffhausen. He was a very lively child and when growing up he could no longer be mastered. After the death of his stepmother Ursula Raeder in 1823, he was sent to the orphanage at Schaffhausen. There the methods of education were very severe and this embittered him completely against his family. The intelligent but unsettled youth was apprenticed to become a lathe operator and established himself at Vevey at the end of the 1830's. He married Louise Elise Tissot (daughter of Jean David Louis and Marian {Marie} {Marguerat} Tissot) in August, 1839. She was born Feb. 27, 1813 in Vevey in Vaud Canton, Switzerland and was christened on June 10, 1813). The Tissot family came from the Chardonnay-Montaubain region of Vaud. One distant ancestor was commander of the Vaudians and fell in the battle of St. Jacob on the Birs. Hermann and Louise had five children between 1840 and 1850. The biography of his son Arnold tells the following about the family. They lived in Vevey until 1847, then moved to Le Locle where he was well known for the manufacture of billiard balls. Louise opened a milliner shop there. The talkative, agile man with his lively black piercing eyes was a popular companion full of jokes and ideas who knew above all to pun and to be satirical. The frequent visits to the pub took a bad effect on his business and his family life. The couple was often separated, but were never divorced. Two of the children, Arnold and Paul Heinrich were sent to Hermann's older brother's (George and Albert) to be raised. The other two surviving brothers, George and Arthur, were sent to the orphanage at Schaffhausen where a monthly amount was paid for their education. Two other brothers, George and Alphonse Albert Louis were sent to the orphanage at Schaffhausen in May, 1853 at ages 9 and 8 where a monthly amount was paid for their education. Alphons died at age 12 in 1857. It is not certain when, or if, their younger brother, Arthur, was sent to the orphanage. Hermann died on April 7, 1874 at age 61. Louise died on April 6, 1882 at 69.

A2E2F2A5A. ARNOLD ALBERT OTT

- Arnold Albert Ott was the eldest son of Hermann and Louise (Tissot) Ott, born Dec. 5, 1840 in Vevey, Vaud, Switzerland. In 1847, the family moves to Le Locle, Switzerland where his mother opens a shop as a milliner. Arnold at age 7 is sent to live with his Uncle Georg Henrich (who was a major in the military) in Schaffhausen and lived in the house "zum Regenbogen" (the Rainbow). Later in 1853, his brothers, Georg, Alphons, and Albert were admitted to the orphanage in Schaffhausen. His brother Paul Heinrich was sent to live with another Uncle, Albert, who was a college professor. In 1856, at age 16, he studied architecture and then chemistry in Stuttgart. He enrolled in medicine at the University of Tübingen in 1860 and finishes his studies in chemistry in Zürich. In 1862, he enrolls in medicine at the University of Zürich, specializing in ophthalmology. In 1867, he graduates as Doctor of Medicine and is licenced as a physician, surgeon, and obstetrician in Schaffhausen Canton; and sets up a practice in Neuhausen. On May 31, 1869, Arnold marries Anna Maria Sporli, daughter of Conrad and Regula (Küng) Sporli of Neuhausen (born Feb. 10, 1850) in the Reformed Church in Neuhausen. In 1870-71, he spends time in the German-French war as a doctor and is at the Swiss-French frontier. In 1872-73, he goes to Paris and Vienna for further training as an oculist and ear specialist. In 1875, he serves as drama critic for a Schaffhausen newspaper. In 1876, he moves his family and practice to Lucerne, Switzerland. and serves on the town council from 1879 to 1883. About this time, he begins to write poems about Napoleon and Richard Wagner. In 1887-88, he writes his first dramatic works, "Konradin" and "Agnes Bernauer" and sends it to the Duke of Saxon-Meiningen and his wife, Baroness of Heldburg whom he later visits. The Duke is favorable impressed and "Agnes Bernauer" is performed in 1889 in Meiningen and is successful. Through 1904, Arnold writes many other dramas and becomes very well known throughout Switzerland. He breaks a leg at his residence in Lucerne and suffers from complications. He received allowances from Meiningen and the Schiller Institute for the rest of his life and his works are continually performed. He died on September 30, 1910 at age 70 and is buried in an honorary plot in Luzern, kept up by the city. A bust of him was placed in Lucerne on the lake front. His wife, Anna Maria, died on Dec. 16, 1925 at age 75 in Luzern. Arnold and Anna Maria had six children. Arnold is the most celebrated Ott in Switzerland and one of the most famous Ott's in the world.

Dec., 1842 and Feb. 1843. George moved with his family from Vevey to Le Locle in 1847 and later to Neuhausen. After his mother and father separated, he and his four brothers were separated; with brothers, Arnold and Paul being raised by his father's brothers; and he, his brother Arthur, and his brother Alphons, who died young in 1857 were sent to the orphanage in Schaffhausen in May 1853, where a small monthly allowance was paid for their education. George was 9 year old at the time. Sometime around 1860, he left the orphanage and went to New York in America. He lived in Astoria, Long Island City, New York. He enlisted in the Union Army in Sept. 1864 and was a private in the 7th New York Infantry Volunteers. He indicated that he was a confectioner at his enlistment. He served about a year and participated in the final Petersburg to Appomatix campaign. He received a gunshot wound in the arm during this time. He married Catherine Mary Reed (daughter of Thomas and Mary Reed, born sometime between 1849 and 1855) on Nov. 21, 1869. She was born at sea when her parents came to New York from Ireland. They had five known children and perhaps several others. He became a mason. In 1887, he received a small inheritance upon his Uncle George's (in Switzerland) death. In a letter to his surviving Uncle Albert, he indicated that he owned his own place and his business was progressing. In the 1890's, he tried unsuccessfully twice to get a disability pension based on his wounds. On July 20, 1897, at age 53, he died suddenly. He allegedly was killed on the job by an Italian co-worker with a blunt instrument. He was buried in St. Michael's Cemetery in New York. His wife and family was left without means. The family story is that the children were divided between Protestant and catholic homes (Catherine being Catholic). The older three children including George were probably on their own by then as he would have been 21. She eventually received a small widow's pension but died soon after around 1898 around age 46. She is buried at Emmereal Street Cemetery in New York.

A2E2F2A5B2A. FRED OTT - born in New York about 1910-11

A2E2F2A5B3. MARY E. (MAMIE) OTT

- Mamie was the oldest daughter George Henry Sr. and Catherine (Reed) Ott, born in May, 1875 in Astoria, Long Island City, Queens county, New York. She married _____ Halley. She died in Feb./Mar., 1911 in childbirth at age 35.

A2E2F2A5B4. GEORGE HENRY OTT JR.

- George Henry Jr. was the second oldest surviving son of George Henry Sr. and Catherine (Reed) Ott, born on Dec. 24, 1876 in Astoria, Long Island City,

Queens county, New York. George was one of four to eight children. He had an older brother Thomas, an older sister Mary (Mamie), and a younger sister Julia. There may have been an older brother George who died shortly after birth. Other possible younger children were: Joseph, Christina, and Anne. He wrote a letter after his father's death to the U.S. Pension Office to expedite his mothers widow's pension (his father having served in the civil war). Sometime after his mother's death between 1898 and 1899 but before 1903, he left New York and went to Baltimore as a lineman to help convert Baltimore streets from gas to electric lights. Sometime after his arrival, he met Rosie Lee Simonds of Baltimore and they married on August 25, 1903. He was 27 years old and she was 18. Rosie was the daughter of Richard Hiram and Laura Virginia (Robinson) Simonds, born on February 25, 1885 in Baltimore City, Maryland. Rosie was one of as many as 15 children. The family had moved from Laurel in Prince Georges County, Maryland to Baltimore City around 1880. They had at least 10 children between 1904 and 1926. There are family stories of a set of twins who died shortly after birth. George's sister Mamie died in New York in 1911 and George went to New York for the funeral. His family lived on Stockton Street in 1907 and moved to Ridgewood Road by 1920. Shortly afterwards, they moved to Darby St. in the Hampden area of Baltimore. In January, 1928, Mildred died at age two and was buried at St. Mary's Episcopal Church on Roland Avenue in Hampden. At some point, George took a job in the cotton mills in the area. Rosie was very musically inclined and played the piano. She gave piano lessons to make some additional money. Several of her children also played musical instruments. George tried to locate his brother in New York, but was never able to make contact. In June, 1930, William or Bill as he was called died at age 17. After the war broke out, son Walter went into the Army and was killed in an automobile accident during training in April, 1943. George and Rosie ran a grocery store out of their home for some years on Darby Street in Baltimore. George died on March of 1951 or 1953 ? at age 75 and was buried at Lorraine next to sons Bill and Walt. Rosie was much loved by her children and grandchildren. She died on January 6, 1962 after a long illness at age 77 and was also buried at Lorraine.

GRACE ELIZABETH
FROCK
(1916 - 1980)

New York and Rosie Lee (Simonds) Ott of Baltimore, born on September 6, 1907 in Baltimore, Md. Richard was inflicted with a mysterious illness thought to be polio at about five years old and was sent away to a Catholic hospital in Catonsville, Md. for about a year and a half. He however recovered with no aftereffects. The family moved several times while he was a child and finally settled on Darby Street in Hampden. He attended the advanced Robert E. Lee Junior High School and started at Baltimore Polytechnic Institute. Because of his family situation, he had to leave school to work. He first worked as a copy boy for the Baltimore News. After a year, his father got him a job in the cotton mill. He later worked at the toothbrush factory for about a year and then went to work in a small brush factory for another year before they closed down. He then went back to work in the cotton mill. In 1932, the depression set in and many of the mills moved south. He was offered a job in Alabama but refused to go. He was very active in sports especially amateur baseball and became a very good second baseman. He also played basketball and football and participated in several charity minstrel shows with several neighborhood boy's clubs. He saved coins especially pennies as a hobby. Also around 1932, he met Grace Frock of Woodberry in Baltimore, daughter of Harry and Elsie (Sullivan) Frock. They were married on July 14, 1936 at her parents house.

Grace was the youngest daughter of Harry and Elsie (Sullivan) Frock, born May 15, 1916 in Baltimore City, Md. They initially rented in the Pikesville area and then rented across the street from her mother around 1938. Times were tough as the depression was ending and Grace supplemented Dick's income from the mill by running a snowball stand. Dick took a job with an awning and canvas Company as a mechanic where he worked until his retirement around 1970. Grace worked for the Montgomery Wards Company as a clerk for a number of years and around 1953, she went to work for the Maryland Casualty Insurance Company as a clerk until her retirement around 1973.

Grace's other sister Thelma had moved to a farm in Manchester in Carroll County around 1948 but the three sisters and the parents were very close. They and their families would gather together nearly every weekend either at their mothers or at Manchester or Edgemere for a family dinner. Holidays were very special and they had thanksgiving at their parents and celebrated the 4th of July first at Edgemere and later at Manchester. Christmas dinner was spent at her parents after the families had visited each other's house. For family vacations, they would drive to Frederick and board on a dairy farm. Everyone had a grand time but it really looked like they were paying to work on the farm.

Grace was really the head of the family and was very strong willed and intelligent. She took care of the finances and was very frugal; however she saw that they had everything that they wanted such as having one of the first televisions on the street. Dick was very laid back and more than willing to let Grace make the family decisions. They took a vacation each year and when Dick Jr. was about ten years old, they took him with them. Many of these were to Florida or New England. Grace and Dick saved their money and were determined that their son would someday go to college. They sent him to Virginia Tech, a military school in Blacksburg, Virginia in 1961. Shortly after Dick Jr.'s graduation in 1961, Grace was hospitalized and diagnosed as a diabetic and would take insulin for the rest of her life. After Dick Jr. took a job with NASA, Grace and Dick drove with him to Texas, helped him get his apartment in shape and took the train back home. After their son's marriage, Grace and Dick basically lived for her grandchildren, first Jayne from her daughter-in-law Jane's first marriage, then Wendy born in 1968, and especially Ricky who was born with Cerebral Palsy in 1970. In 1969, they moved to Owings Mills, Md. near Dick Jr. and his family. They retired not too long after, Dick in 1970 and Grace in 1973. They took the children on vacations with them, kept them on weekends, and joined Dick and Jane on their vacations which were generally to the beach or to Florida. They whole family still celebrated the 4th of July at her sister Thelma's farm. Another tradition was New Year's eve. Grace and Dick for many years spent New Years with their close friends who were all from the Woodberry area. Grace died on 8/29/1980 at age 64 from an infection resulting from her diabetic condition. She is buried in Woodlawn Cemetery in Baltimore. Dick lived on in Owings Mills, Balto. Co., Md. until 5/12/1993 where he passed away due to heart failure at age 85. He was buried next to Grace in Woodlawn Cemetery.

He was very unsettled and often ill and unable to work and without money which he often tried to borrow from his family. His brothers Arnold and Paul Heinrich had to pay off many of his debts. From his letters, he was very close to his mother who had died in 1882. In 1887, in a letter from Paris, he asked his brother Henrich for a loan of 100 francs against an inheritance he was expecting. (either his mother's or his uncle's estate. In 1885, he became seriously ill with tuberculosis in Gersau. Shortly afterwards, he was put in a hospital in Paris. He also indicates that he was arrested in Paris by mistake as a Prussian spy and was detained for six weeks further aggravating his tuberculosis. In a letter to his Uncle Albert from him in 1890, he mentions that he has been estranged from the family for some time and had been in the hospital in Schaffhausen for several months. He was sent back to Schaffhausen under police supervision. In another letter a week later, he thanks his uncle for sending him some clothes. In April, his uncle received a letter from a creditor asking him to pay a 200 frank debt of Arthur's. After Christmas, 1890, he writes a thank you letter form Schaffhausen to his uncle and aunt for their kindness during the holidays. He indicates that his brothers do not know him anymore and sends his greeting to his cousins Fanny and Emilie. He spent the last years of his life in the almshouse in Schaffhausen. He died March 5, 1893 in Schaffhausen at age 42.
